Heatwurx Announces Management Transition

Greenwood Village, CO, - Sep. 27, 2013 Heatwurx, Inc announced today that President and Chief Executive Officer Stephen Garland will transition from his position later this year, upon the completion of the process to choose his successor. Mr. Garland will remain in his role for an interim period through December 2013 to lead the company and assist in a smooth transition. Mr. Garland plans to continue to be of service to the company as a member of the Board of Directors, which he has served on since 2011.

“Heatwurx is entering a new phase of the company’s evolution following two years building the foundation, and is well positioned to execute its business plan and drive growth” Garland said. “The company’s employees, consultants, and partners are passionate about what they do, and about Heatwurx. I would not have been able to make this decision if I did not have the highest confidence in their abilities and their commitment to the success of the company.”

The Board of Directors has appointed a special committee to direct the process. Reg Greenslade, Chairman of the nomination committee, will lead the special committee. Gus Blass III and William Larson, who chair the audit and compensation committees, respectively, will also represent the shareholders in the search process.

“The board is committed to recruiting and hiring a President and Chief Executive Officer that brings experience and strong leadership to Heatwurx and can offer immediate value to the company’s stakeholders,” said Greenslade. “The board recognizes and appreciates of all of Stephen’s contributions in building the company and is pleased that he will continue to serve as a board member. Also, we are very fortunate the he has given the company the time needed to carry out a thorough and effective search and transfer his knowledge, relationships, and experience to his successor.”
